Men's Glee Club to Stage Concert March 8 and 9

The Men's Glee club, under the direction of Jackson K. Ehlert, will present a program of secular and sacred music Wednesday and Thursday, March 8 and 9 at 8 p. m. in the University auditorium.

Soloists with the group will be Edgar Eklof, baritone; Betty Flockhart, soprano; George Conant, bass-baritone, and Galen Ensign, tenor.

"The Testament of Freedom", a choral work for four-part men's voices, will be presented. It is a setting of four famous passages from the writings of Thomas Jefferson.

The 51-voice chorus will sing "Ave Maria", "Beautiful Savior" and "Were You There" as sacred numbers on their program. Among the popular secular songs to be presented are "Goodnight Sweetheart" and "Li'l Liza Jane."

Mrs. Richard Bartholomew and Mrs. Cecil Johnson are the pianists.

Harold Hayes of the speech department assisted the group in the interpretation of "The Testament of Freedom."

Convocation to Hear Dr. Pieper Speak

Dr. Ezra Pieper will address the convocation on "America's Role in World Affairs," Tuesday, March 7.

Dr. Pieper earned his M. A. and Ph. D. at the University of Illinois. History was his major field of interest as a graduate student. He has taught American, European and English history and political science.

Dr. Pieper

He is a member of the American Academy of Political and Social Science and the American Historical society.

Psychologists Form Alpha Psi Lambda

An honorary fraternity, Alpha Psi Lambda, has been formed by the majors and minors in the psychology department.

The constitution adopted by the members is awaiting recognition by the Student council.

Dr. Betty Horenstein, associate professor of psychology, will serve as the adviser.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, March 7, at 3:10 p. m. in room 320. Election of officers will take place.

Billy Bishop's Band to Play For ROTC Spring Cadet Ball

Billy Bishop's 12-piece orchestra will play for the second annual Cadet ball, according to yesterday's announcement by Richard T. Todd, president of UMD's Arnold society of air cadets.

The Cadet ball, to be held April 15 at the Armory, is an all-campus affair. Advance ticket sales begin today and continue next Monday and Tuesday at a booth in Main. After that tickets may be purchased from any ROTC student until the date of the dance. Any UMD student may purchase tickets for himself and his guests. Tickets will sell for $2 plus tax.

Station WEBC has informed the ROTC of tentative plans to broadcast a half-hour

Mu Delta Pi Fraternity Makes Plans For April First 'Fools Festival'

Mu Delta Pi, pre-med and pre-dent fraternity, is preparing to hold a "Fools Festival" Saturday, April 1 in the armory.

The "Fools Festival" is to be a city-wide square dance, an official April Fool's Day dance. Instructors will offer lessons in beginning squares. For the best squares prizes will be given.

The committee co-chairmen in charge of events are Roger Haglund and Leigh Gisvold. Don Dahl is head of the decoration committee and Toni Romano is handling publicity. Dr. Theron Odlaug is the faculty adviser of Mu Delta Pi.

Luther W. Youngdahl To Speak at Series

Governor Luther W. Youngdahl will speak on Minnesota's Youth Conservation program at 8 p. m. Tuesday at Washington Junior high school. He is the last speaker of the Youth Guidance series.

An audience discussion of the topic will follow his talk.

Additional candidates for "Sweetheart of the Corps" were announced recently by Pat Heaslip and Tom Fiege, chairmen of the contest. Katherine McDonnell, Winifred Welch and Janet Dow were nominated by the Discussion club, Home economics club and Rangers club, respectively.

portion of the ball, including the presentation and crowning of the "Sweetheart of the Corps" and the grand march.

Benjamin Davis is general dance chairman, assisted by Ronald Weber and Bill Holes. Ticket sales are under the direction of Roger Lillehei and Don Shepardson heads the decorations staff. Harold Jensen and Harvey Albond head the publicity committee.

Bartholomew, DePaulis Solo In Senior Recital

The UMD music department will present Richard Bartholomew, trumpeter, and Donald DePaulis, trombonist, in a senior recital at 4 p. m. Sunday, March 5, Tweed.

Assisting the soloists will be Robert Roper, violist; Annie Musto, soprano; Elsie Ruotsinoja, pianist, and Mary B. Bartholomew, Elaine Mattila and Norma Musto, accompanists.

The program will include works of Schubert, Balay, Mozart, David, Franz and Donizetti.

The public is invited without charge.

Council Approves 1950 Prom Budget

The approval of the proposed budget for the 1950 Prom highlighted the Student council meeting Tuesday evening.

A motion, which reads as follows: "... that the Student council accept the $800 budget to be taken from the student activities fund, and back the 'name band' contract to the extent of $2,000 with the final consent (as to who the name band will be) to rest with the finance and social committees of the Student council" was made by Don Cook and passed by the majority.

Don Simon, the president of the "All U Congress", the student governing body at the main campus and five of his associates, Billie Hull, Ann Hoiland, Ruth Weesner, Al Kaufman and Jim Marvin were guests of the Student council.

Guild Production Begins Run

The house lights will dim at 8:15 tonight in the UMD auditorium and the curtain will rise on the second performance of Tennessee Williams' play "The Glass Menagerie". The play is under the direction of Harold Hayes and his assistant, Philip Smith.

Ticket reservations for either tonight's or tomorrow night's performance may still be secured by phoning Hemlock 1225 and leaving your request with a University Guild member.

Art Fraternity Plans Sleighride

A sleighride sponsored by the Kappa Pi art fraternity will be held for all art students and their guests at the Woodbine, March 4, Saturday at 8 p. m.

The sleighride will be limited to the first 40 applicants. Transportation to the Woodbine will be provided. The group will meet at Tweed at 7 p. m.

Tickets are $3 per couple and $1.50 for stags. The price includes refreshments. Tickets may be purchased in room 111, Main.

'Miss Government' Contest Opens Here

A flashing smile and pretty figure are entirely incidental in the new "Miss Government" contest sponsored by the Minnesota League of Women Voters. The contest is open to all Minnesota college women. The prize is a trip to Washington, D. C. Information may be obtained from Miss Harriet Harrison in OSPS.

The play has a cast of four. Kay McDonnell portrays the part of the mother, Amanda Wingfield, while Anne Nottingham is cast as the daughter, Laura Wingfield. The part of Tom Wingfield, who serves as the narrator, is filled by Herbert Taylor, and Ray Helgemoe plays the part of the gentleman caller, Jim O'Conner.

Men's Glee Club Rehearses Minstrel Show for Convo

By Toni Romano

"Come on down South, way, way down South—"

These lyrics accompanied by a ringing banjo played by a dancing black-face character can signify but one thing—a minstrel!

The University Men's glee club, under the direction of Dr. Jackson Ehlert, is scheduled to present a typical vaudeville-caliber minstrel show at the general convocation in April. During the planning for the show, Dr. Ehlert was requested to serve as interlocutor.

"No, boys," he replied, "I think the participation should be limited to you fellows."

The Glee club rose up en masse.

"Listen, Jack—you're one of the boys, too. Where we go, you go!"

This incident is indicative of the attitude and spirit of the organization. Dr. Ehlert, a lustrous, crew-cut musician, besides having great audience appeal, is extremely popular among the members of the Glee club.

Specialized dancing and musical numbers together with slapstick humor and an outstanding choral group are surely the best ingredients for an hour's entertainment.

Registration Blues

"Oh, you're in the wrong line, bub."

"Frosh register Thursday, please."

"But now you still haven't them tallied."

Ah, the woolly woes of registration. Signing up for spring quarter began Monday—a whole two weeks ahead of winter quarter exams. The idea behind it all is to relieve some of the confusion which Elmer Eyeballs encounters in getting his favorite prof to sign a blue card while slyly a peek at the final exam at the same time.

In quarters past the usual procedure was to register one week ahead of exams. Survivors of the ordeal vouch for the difficulty of cramming in between blue card collections.

Exams begin March 13. Don't wait to put off your

Getting a Job Is a Job Itself, Placement Service Reminds Grads

With the coming of graduation of students in the spring, Mr. Falk, employment counselor, is busy directing the Bachelor of Arts Placement service. This service is devoted to the graduate with the B. A. degree to assist him in obtaining work. Finding employment is principally the responsibility of the student. Agencies assist the registrant.

Placement meetings are held for graduating students desiring such guidance to orientate them in the correct procedure to use in obtaining a satisfactory position and in making students placement conscious. Completion of credentials is an important factor in the well-organized campaign which a student should use in seeking a job.

About sixty students or more are expected to register with the UMD Placement service. In the past two quarters over 25 per cent of those students who completed registration have been placed by this office.

Because of the greater number of qualified applicants on the labor market for the jobs available, competition will be more keen.

'Menagerie' Scores Success

By Dr. Jackson K. Ehlert

Last year we saw Tennessee Williams' "A Street Car Named Desire" produced by a reputable New York company, and last night we saw the same writer's "The Glass Menagerie" produced by the drama department of UMD. We sincerely salute the Menagerie cast, the production crew and the director for a performance which compared favorably in all respects with the best dramatic efforts which we have been privileged to see.

The plot of "The Glass Menagerie" is simple; a frustrated mother tries too hard to live her children's lives for them, and in doing it leads them into patterns of defeat and frustration which are as deep and deadly as her own. But while the plot is simple, the portrayal of the characters is difficult.

Kay McDonnell, as Amanda, the mother, smoothly created the middle-aged woman whose youth had left her unprepared for the problems she tried to handle. Miss McDonnell made exceptionally good use of a better than average voice.

Herbert Taylor, who played the part of the son who is both a character in the play and the narrator of the story, was equally convincing. He succeeded in establishing the proper spirit of detachment required as the narrator. He was equally successful in depicting the rebellion, hopelessness and unhappiness of the son.

In some ways the part of Lora, the daughter, played by Ann Nottingham, is the most difficult of the four roles. Lora is the one who is most completely crushed by the force of circumstance and by the mother's frustrations. Ann handled the part very well.

Ray Helgemoe, as the gentleman caller, the only extrovert in the group, provided the contrast which was essential for the satisfactory development of all of the roles.

"The Glass Menagerie" makes use of an unusual stage set, and requires rather intricate lighting which was well handled. Anyone who enjoys the theatre, and anyone who has not already discovered that modern drama can be engrossing, will be well rewarded for attending this current production of "The Glass Menagerie".

'Mad' Musicians Gleefully Toot At Heedless Olcott Walls

By Rey Roulston

As one plods up the hill from Superior street, or lopes down to just miss a bus, he is likely to hear the clear tones of a soprano, the blare of a horn, or the tinkling of a piano, coming from Olcott as he passes by.

If the impulse to investigate is obeyed and he enters the building, a deluge of music greets him at the door. Thus it has been since Olcott Hall became the Music Conservatory of the school.

Formerly the home of the late William James Olcott and Fannie Bailey Olcott, the building's history really began with Mr. and Mrs. Olcott's travels in the South, the design of their home being the result of observations and sketches made of plantation homes. Construction of the house began in July, 1904, and was completed in November, 1905, the first meal being served on Thanksgiving of that year.

OLCOTT HALL, the home of the music department, is a gift to the institution given by the two Olcott daughters in 1941. —(Photo by Hall)

The Hall was the gift of the Olcott's two daughters, and was formally dedicated in January, 1941, following renovation and refurbishing by the WPA. Mrs. Leonard Elsmith of New York (the former Dorothy Olcott) traveled here to make the presentation.

The dedication program took place on January 18, 1941, and a reception was held that evening. The following day, Sunday, was "open house" during which Mrs. Elsmith conducted a tour through the building.

The Bailey Olcott room on the second floor was set aside to preserve the family atmosphere, and a grandfather clock was returned from Mrs. Elsmith's New York home to keep its watchful eye on the front hall. The clock, which persistently refuses to run, gives as its reason, "It's too blasted noisy, with you young whippersnappers around here!"

LEAD PIPE CONCERT . . .

Everything from a length of lead pipe to new year's eve noise makers will be used at the Men's glee club presentation of Fred Waring's arrangement of "Dry Bones" at their concert March 8 and 9.

A number titled "Peter Piper" will also be one of the curiosities of the program. The lyrics of the song consist solely of the words, "Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled peppers."

FULL HOUSE . . .

Our little rumor monger across the bay tells us that Superior State college will have Duke Ellington to play for its combination prom and military ball.

So far in the "big name" band contest Superior State is about 20 points ahead of other

Twin Ports competitors if this is true.

Who's going to up the ante next?

FROM THE MAIN CAMPUS . . .

We see by the Minnesota Daily that Dr. Ralph Dale Miller's "Symphony No. 1" was performed by the University Symphony orchestra Feb. 21 at Northrop Memorial auditorium. Dr. Miller is the head of UMD's Division of fine and applied arts.

Five UMD junior and senior girls enrolled in "home management house residents" course are finding much skill is required to reach their ultimate goal of happy family living.

Gladys Lehto, Arlene Sandberg, Marcella Spawn, Winifred Welch and Mrs. Janet Lewis are living at 317 North 23rd Avenue East for this six weeks', three credit subject. Miss Gladys E. Dunton, head of home economics, supervises the students.

Only male in the house is Mrs. Lewis' four-year-old son, David.

Hostess-manager, cook, assistant cook-waitress, housekeeper and laundress-snowshoveler are one-week jobs rotating among the girls. The hostess-manager decides if guests may be received.

Residence requirement is six days a week. Dormitory hours of 12 p. m. on week nights, 2 a. m. on Fridays and Saturdays are followed.

Breakfast is served at 7:10 a. m. with "no pin curls" the rule. Lunch is a help yourself meal. Dinner has the fancy touch.

UMD is renting Norman McLeod's house with utilities included. Each student pays $60 for the course.

The girls agree, "It's supposed to be just like home—and it is!"

Torrance hall women enjoyed a toboggan party at Chester bowl Monday night.

Students and staff members will be asked to contribute to the Red Cross beginning Monday, March 6. They will be personally approached by campus representatives after this date, and will also be able to contribute at a table to be set up in the lower hall, Main.

Wirtanen Reports On Party Convention

"Although the Progressive party lost politically in '48, it has since made tremendous moral gains and is now in a position to make valuable contributions to the fight for world peace," according to Walter S. Wirtanen in a report to the UMD Young Progressives Tuesday night.

Wirtanen, a UMD senior, returned from the Chicago National convention of the Progressive party.

POLL TACTS

UMD students are not satisfied with the name, "Bulldogs" a recent "poll tacts" survey revealed. The question was, "Do you think that the name, "Bulldogs" is an appropriate name for UMD now that it is part of the University?" The tabulations showed that 54 per cent answered negatively, 36 per cent favored, and ten per cent offered no opinion on the name "Bulldogs".

"Little Gophers", "Junior Gophers" and other main campus derivatives were favored by 33 per cent in answer to the question "What name other than 'Bulldogs' might be used?" Thirteen per cent suggested using "Bears" in keeping with the natural summer element around Duluth. In response to a "Black Bears" suggestion, someone presented the "Jolly Fishers" as a remedy.

Fifty-two per cent of the people polled had no idea on a new name.

Paquette

George Paquette, business and economics senior, "I believe that we should assume the name of the school we now represent, not of the now defunct 'Bulldogs' of DSTC."

Beverly Orchard, four-year elementary freshman, "The name should have something to do with Minnesota, as long as we're part of the university. I don't think 'Bulldogs' has anything to do with UMD."

Miss Love

Nancy Love, kindergarten - primary junior, "Since we are a state university we should have a name relating to the state, yet it should not be the same as the main university."

LOCKER-ROOM CHATTER

by DAVE DYE

Norm Thompson, Bulldog net-tender on the hockey squad, finally hit the scoring column last week. Absurd, you say, for a goalie to score? Well, the scoring was in broomball games at Fond du Lac Friday night during the Winter Sports night.

The hockey team defeated the "M" club in three games that night, 4-0, 1-0 and 4-1. Frank "Sully" Smith claimed a shutout in the second contest. Les Nummela, in charge of the event, reported only minor casualties, including a couple of frozen noses, a wrenched back and one person who is still picking straws from his posterior.

Soderquist Is Popular Cager

"We want Sody," is a familiar chant at UMD home games. The object of these enthusiastic fans is to see Lane Soderquist in action during the contest.

"Sody" is an excellent man to have on a squad because of his spirit and jovial mood," was Coach Ray Isenbarger's comment when asked about Lane. "He is a definite asset for morale, and if he were a bit larger, he would be a tough man to keep off the floor."

Lane hails from Cotton, where he played four years on the varsity cage squad. He will be awarded his fourth college basketball monogram this year. 'Sody' adds with a smile, "Four letters, and I've never played in a first half."

Hats off to a good competitor, a nice guy, and a swell fellow to have on a basketball team!

UMD Skiers Gain Publicity

Two UMD students hit the national sports news last week.

Fred Murphy, noted halfback, hurdler and ski jumper set a new national record at Steamboat Springs, Colorado, as he leaped 286 feet to eclipse the old mark by eight feet.

George Hovland, a transfer from the main campus, made a hurried trip to Oregon. His plane was late, and after a long taxi ride, he started the cross country event an hour late and finished in tenth place in the national tourney. He also finished eighth in the downhill race to remain in contention for the four-event crown. . . .

The crowd at the St. Olaf game really cheered the efforts of Rudy Monson as he garnered 28 points in his quest for the conference scoring lead. But the loudest noise of the evening greeted the free throw made in the fading seconds by Lane Soderquist.

Cagers Defeat Oles, 70-54 As Monson Hits 28 Points

Rudy Monson poured a torrid 28 points into the meshes as UMD closed its MIAC season with a 70-54 victory over St. Olaf. The win left the Maroon and Gold with a 5-7 conference record.

The first half was a nip and tuck affair as the Ole center, Jack Morgenson, kept a close tab on Monson. But when Morgenson became handicapped with four fouls, big Rudy completely stole the show.

The fans, realizing that Monson was trying for the conference scoring crown, were thrilled time and again as the big

Intramural Tourney Finals Slated for Thursday 'Noon

If it's action and spirited competition you're seeking, you can find it Thursday at Main gym. The final round in the boys' IM basketball tourney will be staged Thursday afternoon to determine the UMD champion. Game time for the big attraction is 5:10 p. m.

Three days of tournament play have cut the field of competing squads to six. The teams that remained in contention for title honors after first round play were the Weasels, who bounced the Hunters, and the Wolves who downed the Rangers.

The semi-final pairings have the Weasels facing the winner of the Trixter vs. De-

Molay game, and the Wolves meeting the survivor of the fray between the Streaks and Proctor.

A consolation game between the semi-finalist losers will be held at 4:15, prior to the championship attraction.
